

Waveland woman arrested in hit-and-run accident

BY ED LEPOMA
A Waveland woman has been charged with Driving Under the Influence, causing death following a hit-and-run accident on the eve of Thanksgiving on Herlihy Street.

The investigation eventually involved the Waveland and Bay St. Louis police departments, and the Mississippi Highway Patrol, but the suspect was picked up within two hours after the accident.

Waveland Police Chief Jimmy Varnell said Carol J. Kientz, 33, who listed her address as Lakeshore, Miss., has been charged in the death of five-year-old Erica Lee Thomas.

According to Varnell, the child and four other children were walking along Herlihy Street in Waveland when an automobile, traveling at a high rate of speed, swerved off the road, and struck the Thomas child.

A call reporting a hit-and-run came into the Waveland Police station, and a mobile medic unit, Fire department personnel arrived on the scene around 5:19 p.m.

They found the Thomas child laying in the road, and Varnell said medics started CPR on the scene, but the child was pronounced dead shortly after arriving at Hancock Medical Center.

Rooster's Restaurant in Kiln is family affair

BY ED LEPOMA
Lee Lott looks in the mirror to check out her perfectly coiffed blonde hair. She smooths out any wrinkles in her evening dress, and is poised to begin her evening.

It's a little after 6 p.m., on a Friday evening, and it's dinnertime at Rooster's Restaurant.

This mecca of fine dining in the piney woods of Kiln is the brainchild of Andy and Lee Lott, and is renowned for its classic French and Acadian dishes.

Rooster's used to be a local secret, but the word has gotten out, and customers have come from as far away as Alabama and the Cajun country of Louisiana to dine at this quaint eatery.

And, they're all treated alike by Lott-the locals and the newcomers. Every night, the proprietress is on hand and goes from table to table greeting customers, and checking to see if everything is to their liking.

Lott was an elementary schoolteacher in her native

Lake Charles, and modeling part-time for a dress shop downtown owned by Andy's sister.

"This was 1961, and he was fresh out of the Marines," Lott recalled. "He got my name off a check I had given his sister, called me up for a date, and the rest is history."

They married after a whirlwind six-month courtship. Andy had an advertising background, and found work in the area with various industries. Lee continued teaching.

Andy loved the classical style of French cooking. He had apprenticed at Chez Oca in Lake Charles under Master Chef Fernando Oca, a graduate of the famed Cordon Bleu cooking school in Paris.

Lee introduced him to two formidable chefs, her mother, Gaynell, and grandmother, Nini, two masters of Acadian cooking and Andy was quickly caught up in the wonderful food of Cajun country.

Lott's roots were in Hancock County. His father, Jack Lott,

North Bay addition nearing completion

BY RICHARD MEEK
North Bay Elementary students may find a new addition awaiting when they return from the Thanksgiving holidays.

Architect Kevin Fitzpatrick said the beleaguered addition at North Bay may open next week, over two months behind schedule.

Fitzpatrick said he recently inspected the building, and found a "punch list" of 105 items that needed to be corrected. But he was optimistic the list would be completed so students could begin using the classrooms next week.

Fitzpatrick said one item that will not be completed is the installation of ceiling fans. He said an apparent misunderstanding led to the delivery of the wrong fans.

However, he said the proper fans will be installed over the Christmas holidays.

The North Bay addition has been beset with problems almost since the beginning. The contractor has blamed the building's unusual design, which features dormers in both the front and back. Because of the design, delivery of the pre-manufactured building took nearly three months, instead of the normal delivery time of four to six weeks.

The news is not so good at Waveland Elementary.

According to Fitzpatrick, a similar addition at Waveland

Moran 'looking forward' to working with board

BY ED LEPOMA
Philip E. Moran fought hard and long to capture the District 5 slot on the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

He had a formidable task before him 11 months ago when he decided to run against fellow Democrat Mike Ladner, a two-term incumbent who also served as President of the Board.

Moran, who has owned his own pest control firm for the last 12 years, started attending board meetings in the fall of 1994. He began to acquaint himself with the issues facing Hancock County, and District 5, in particular.

By January, with the blessing of his wife and young family, he had decided he would make a run for the post.

Moran's grandfather, Joe Moran Sr., was a three-term supervisor in Hancock County before the Great Depression. The younger Moran now lives in Kiln on the road named for his grandfather, and on the land his grandfather homesteaded.

"This area has always been good to me and my family," said Moran. "We've been very fortunate, blessed in life, and I wanted to give something back to a community that's been so good to me."

Moran is the youngest of eight children born to Carl J. and Geneva Moran (now deceased), who both taught in Hancock County schools. All of the Moran children earned college degrees, and live here.

He graduated from Hancock North Central and has a bachelor's degree in Agriculture and Business from Mississippi State University. He owns Philips Pest Control.

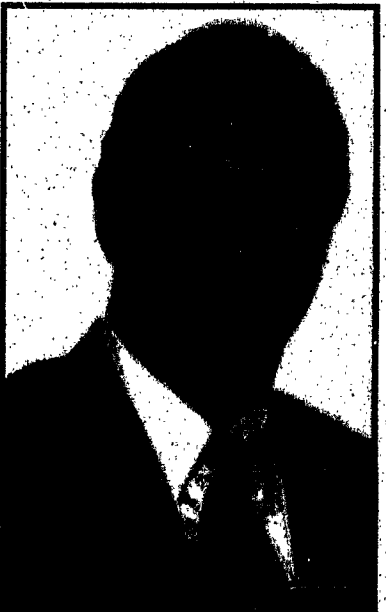

He began his time-consuming, door-to-door campaigning at the beginning of last year in Hopes dim for North Bay extension project

BY ED LEPOMA

Hopes are dimming that property owners along North Beach will chip in any money to pay for extending the Bay View Court shoreline protection project.

Bay Council members and Mayor Eddie Favre discussed the impasse at Wednesday night's meeting, but took no action, except to keep negotiations ongoing.

Previously, Council has gone on record saying they would support an extension "if there are assurances of no additional costs to the city."

With city participation, the U.S. Corps of Engineers has already let a contract, and work has begun to protect portions of North Beach Boulevard from erosion and possible collapse.

The shoreline protection project will provide a bulkhead extending the city's seawall from Bay View Court to the southern edge of Casino Magic's tract of land at the foot of the Highway 90 bridge.

So far, Bay St. Louis has contributed $120,000 to the project, although the city's share of the cost was originally estimated at around $80,000.

In recent months, six or seven North Beach property owners had requested cost estimates on what it would cost to extend the toe of the bulkhead out to a line even with the Glindmeyer property (about at the second bridge piling).

At the meeting, Mayor Favre read a letter to Council members from Johnny Grandison, who is overseeing the project for the Corps.

Grandison said, "The cost to reproduce the drawings, make estimates of quantities and provide a cost estimate of the revised plans would be about $7,000."

He estimated the project modification—which, in effect, would move construction out about another 12 feet—would cost between another $60,000 to $70,000.

After those estimates, Les Fillingame, the city's chief planner, sent letters out to the property owners, relating the additional costs.

In that letter, Fillingame told property owners, since the city won't agree to bear additional costs on the project, "written request for design and spec modifications would obligate them to approximately $7,000 whether or not the change order is eventually authorized."

Fillingame said property owners would have to escrow that amount within days after making the request.

In his letter, Fillingame asked property owners to indicate if they favored the change order and provide the proportionate share, roughly $10.00 per front foot or to indicate if they were against the change order and would not come up with their share.

Favre reported he had two letters: "One property owner doesn't want to spend a dime, the other, no more than $1,000," he said.

Councilman James Thriffley, whose district includes North Beach, said, "I'm very perturbed that the Corps wants to charge us $7,000 just to give us an estimate."

And, Councilman Charles Sianna said the city and property owners should keep negotiations open to see if any agreement can be reached.

Thriffley said, although the project is proceeding, time has not run out on attempting a compromise.

"Maybe the estimates (for the change order and the extension) might come down. Maybe one of the owners will come forward and pay the whole cost."

"We'll keep negotiating," he said.

School board approves Landis & Gyr contract

BY TRACI BONNEY

Ballasts and bulbs may make all the difference.

The Hancock County school board recently approved a contract with Landis & Gyr Powers, an energy efficiency contractor, to make lighting changes that are expected to generate some $60,000 in savings.

The changes outlined in the performance contract include changing ballasts and bulbs at Gulfview, Hancock North Central and Charles B. Murphy elementary schools, Hancock High School and the Hancock Vocational-Technical Center. The old ballasts and bulbs will remain school district property.

Camille Steen, a Landis & Gyr representative who has worked with the district over the last several months on the contract, told the district the new bulbs will give the proper lighting levels to the areas affected. At present, some areas in the schools are under-lighted, while others are over-lighted and create a glare. Not only will energy savings be realized, but the lighting itself will be improved, she said.

The energy management system set forth in the contract also calls for installation of a system to automatically start and stop the schools' heating and air equipment, which will make those units run more efficiently.

Hancock High has an energy management system, which will be replaced with the Landis & Gyr system. The new system will not only increase the heating and air units' efficiency, but will also optimize the use of the school's chillers and boilers.

At Charles B. Murphy Elementary, Landis & Gyr will replace the eight existing window air conditioners with eight package — or "through-the-wall" — air conditioners, which run more efficiently. As with the ballasts and bulbs, the replaced air conditioners will remain school district property.

Landis & Gyr has guaranteed the annual savings for the course of the 10-year contract. If the school district does not realize those savings, Landis & Gyr is obligated to pay the district the difference.

The new equipment being installed will be paid for from those guaranteed savings. For this, the school district is entering into a lease agreement with Trustmark Bank, with which the district already deals.

"CUEVAS' QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Recent reports on discussions about street lights by Waveland's mayor and aldermen bring back memories of days gone by as to how sites were selected then. Waveland had very few street lights in the 1940's, and as the town could afford new ones, the mayor and aldermen would select the sites as a team.

The late Mayor Garfield Ladner would pick up the four aldermen, and they would drive about the town and select the sites. If there were enough funds to add five lights for the coming year they would place one in each ward and place the fifth one in a place most needed.

By the way, Mayor Ladner served Waveland as mayor for over 31 years.

One must remember, Waveland was a very small town then. Funds were very limited, and there was no such thing as a city engineer on the payroll.

Times have changed, and Waveland has since moved up to being a city. Yet, it still holds true that as cooperation was necessary then between the mayor and aldermen, Waveland as a town today, still needs working together.

At the Thanksgiving time of year many of us have open hearts for worthy causes.

Hope Haven is one of the largest projects to be undertaken by volunteers in our area during the past year or so.

The object of Hope Haven is to provide a home for abused and neglected children, a facility this county really has never had.

Remember, Hope Haven is not for delinquent children Bobbie Barr, president, emphasizes.

Many of our organizations, businesses, community leaders and individuals are all answering the call to help.

Help with Hope Haven can come in many ways, such as financial, building materials, labor, etc.

Hope Haven has already purchased a building, and it is currently undergoing renovation.

Licensed contractors, plumbers and electricians are needed. A license is necessary because of liability. Building materials are also needed at this time.

If you feel you can help, give a call to Bobbie or Mary at 467-7947, or 467-5687.

The big Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's annual banquet and installation of officers is set for Friday night at Casino Magic's Torgy's.

Cindy Vernon, executive director, reports there still is a limited number of seats available.

This year's keynote speaker is Dr. Aubrey Lucas, president of the University of Southern Mississippi. As many of you know, Dr. Lucas plans on retiring at the end of this school year.

He is a very good speaker, and I am sure will have a good message for us all.

Those interested in attending may contact the chamber at 467-9048.

Do not forget the telephone book recycling project under way by the chamber.

I know many students from the area schools have been collecting old telephone directories, but I am sure there are still others in the community.

In case no one has contacted you, there are two special collection bins, one next to the chamber office on Highway 90 in Bay St. Louis and the other on Indian Hill Boulevard next to the Diamondhead Dental Clinic.

Last year over $1500 was awarded to area schools for the students' efforts.

Recycling is very important, and I hope this year a record of telephone directories will be collected.

Hope Haven contributor

Bourgeois-Stieffel-Ray American Legion Post No. 77, Commander Richard M. Smith, left, presents a $500 check to Bobbie Barr, center, and Mary Woodson, vice-president of Hancock County's Hope Haven. Commander Smith said the Waveland American Legion intends to make this an annual donation. Hope Haven has been formed to offer shelter to abused and homeless children, Barr said. FROM THE SENATE

By Senator Trent Lott

Why tax cuts?

There are two reasons why tax cuts must be part of the final Balanced Budget Act of 1995: fundamental fairness and economic growth.

The balanced budget package's middle-class tax cut fulfills a promise to the American taxpayer that the President has never kept. It leaves more money with the people who earned it, rather than with the Washington bureaucracy that spends it.

The week before Thanksgiving I was involved in the discussions that got the federal government back to work and set up the commitment to get the budget balanced in seven years with honest budget numbers, not rosy scenarios. The simple language I drafted which broke the impasse said that "the balanced budget shall be estimated by the Congressional Budget Office based on the most recent current economic and technical assumptions, following a thorough consultation and review with the Office of Management and Budget, and other government and private experts."

Now as we begin the negotiations set out in this agreement signed by the President, a lot of questions are being aimed at the middle-class tax cut package in the budget legislation still to be enacted. It is easy to make the charge that tax cuts should not be taken up when we are trying to balance the budget. But in the name of fundamental fairness in correcting the serious inequities in our tax code, who is opposed to:

— Family tax relief, including a $500 per child tax credit, an adoption credit, marriage penalty relief, a deduction for custodial care for the elderly, and a student loan interest deduction.

— Personal savings and investment incentives including individual retirement accounts, small business incentives, and capital gains reductions.

— Health care-related proposals including medical savings accounts, long-term care insurance, and self-employed deductibility, and — Estate tax reform.

The proposed $500 tax credit for families filing with dependent children under 18 years now is capped for single parents at $75,000 incomes and for couples at $110,000. To ensure that this credit has the desired impact, I would be willing to compromise on bringing down that $110,000 cap.

Nine million taxpayers would benefit from having the effective capital gains tax rate lowered to 19.8 percent for individuals and 28 percent for corporations, retroactively, for gains realized after January 1, 1995. Over 80 percent of these tax cuts will go to individual savers.

In 1993, over 83 percent of reported capital gains went to those making under $100,000. Over 74 percent went to those making under $75,000, and 57 percent went to those making under $50,000.

There is no federal tax more offensive than that levied on the deceased and their families. Not only is the estate tax double taxation, it is, in fact, misnamed. Rather than falling on "estates," its impact is on small business and family farms which have been built over generations, only to be destroyed upon an individual's death in order to pay the federal taxes. Now, many estates are subject to a 55 percent federal rate with an additional 10 percent tacked on by some states.

The middle-class tax package is not an across-the-board tax cut for everyone, although we should retain the goal of restoring their much-needed income to all hard-working Americans.

The middle-class tax cut is a targeted package of incentives whose purpose is to correct the most egregious inequities in the tax code and to encourage economic growth.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Deputy responds to letter from Beach resident

Dear Editor:

I'm writing in response to Mr. Julius Egloff's letter to the editor a few weeks ago.

He made a good point when he said police officers should not be driving reckless or running stop signs without lights and sirens.

We are required by state law to stop at all stop signs and traffic signals to make sure it is safe to proceed even if we have on lights and sirens.

When officers violate traffic laws without a good reason it makes us all look bad. We are highly visible in marked cars. It does set a bad example and it looks like we think we are above the law, which we are not.

If citizens see officers apparently driving reckless here in Hancock county, I suggest they do file a complaint with the agency the officer works for.

I can't speak for Bay P.D. or Waveland P.D., and even though it doesn't make the 6 o'clock news, the deputies in my department get called on the carpet about complaints against us and action is taken, one example being, if too many complaints are made about our driving, we are not allowed to take our patrol cars home, and the complaints that the sheriff takes or letters written go in our personnel files.

That may not seem like much, but enough complaints and we can be out of job.

Now there is a difference between speeding and reckless driving. There are times when we do have to speed, and depending on the location and other variables, we may not be reckless.

I have often said that a police officer's speed is relative. If he is going to a call at your house, he is going too slow, but if he passes you on the road, he is going too fast.

There are times when we do have to pass vehicles on the road, and for one reason or another we don't have our lights and sirens on.

Sometimes, people who were going the speed limit see us behind them and get nervous and go even slower.

We do have a time and distance factor working in the county, and we do have to pass through Waveland and Bay St. Louis to get back and forth from our department and the areas where we patrol and respond to calls.

There have been times when I have not come to a complete stop at an intersection while running code, but I made sure it was safe to go through before I did.

If we fail to yield at an intersection where we do not have the right-of-way and cause an accident, even if we have our lights and sirens on, we are liable. Not only can our department be sued, but we can be sued individually.

I had to laugh at Mr. Egloff's comment about Sheriff's cars being neither in hot pursuit nor in their jurisdiction. Yes, we patrol the county, but the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland are in Hancock County and are definitely in our jurisdiction.

I don't understand his comment about us heading up Blue Meadow Road or up in the county for shift change. We don't have shift change at either of those locations.

Our department is located on Court Street, right smack dab inside the city limits of Bay St. Louis, but again within our jurisdiction.

Mr. Egloff also mentioned the election in his letter. I do wonder what his motive was for writing. Is he truly a concerned citizen, or was he just backing another candidate for sheriff?

Sincerely,
Sgt. Rita Blaize-Watson
Bay St. Louis

FROM THE STATE AUDITOR

COUNTIES

Q. May the board of supervisors purchase machinery and equipment for use in constructing, reconstructing and maintaining public roads from an agency of the federal government authorized to sell and dispose of surplus property without advertising for and accepting competitive bids?

A. Yes. (Section 19-13-19)

Q. Are counties required to close the courthouse and county offices on state holidays?

A. Yes. The courthouse shall be closed on all state holidays created by state law. The board of supervisors, in its discretion, may close county offices on holidays created by executive or order of the governor. (Section 25-1-99)

Q. May the board of supervisors enter into a contract related to collection and transportation of solid wastes for a period of time that extends beyond a term of office?

A. Yes, for a period of up to six years. (Section 17-17-5)

Q. Must the tax collector begin to accept payment of ad valorem taxes not later than Dec. 26, 1995, for taxes required to be paid by Feb. 1, 1996?

A. Yes. (Section 27-41-1)

Q. May a county use Grand Gulf Nuclear Plant distributions to fund the costs of garbage and/or rubbish collection and/or disposal service?

A. No. These costs must be met by generator fees and/or a tax levy not to exceed four mills. General fund monies cannot be used for this purpose except in a few very limited situations. (Section 19-5-109)

Q. May a board of supervisors negotiate the settlement of a claim against a county employee as the result of an action of such employee while working for the county?

A. Yes. (Section 25-1-47)

Q. May a county provide uniforms for road department/district employees?

A. Yes, if the uniforms are unique, required and remain county property. (Section 19-3-40)

Q. May a county road department/district use county equipment and materials to work on a church parking lot?

A. No, that would be a donation not authorized by law. (Section 66 of the Mississippi Constitution)

Q. May a newly elected county tax assessor/collector who has not taken office be reimbursed for attending assessor/collector conferences called by the State Tax Commission?

A. Yes. (Section 27-3-59)

Q. May a board of supervisors authorize the use of county road equipment to dig graves for the burying of livestock?

A. This may be done only when the livestock died as a result of an epidemic and a licensed veterinarian certifies that an epidemic or contagious disease exists among the livestock of the county and immediate burial is necessary. (Section 19-5-15)

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

Half-shaved and, of course, half-lathered, I ran outside to see a parishioner who has been unable to attend church in more than a year. I was taken aback to see her holding a cloth to her nose, peering out the passenger side of the car.

"I have to keep this washcloth to my nose," she struggled to explain. "Either that, or I must use a mask. Otherwise, the car carpet sets off all my allergies."

Usually vibrant and vigorous-looking, Yvonne Gasper seemed drawn, tentative and somewhat weak. A bad feeling came over me as I observed the marked changes in her health.

"They claim I was sick like this before anything went wrong on my job," she said softly, "but I have many witnesses to testify that my health had always been good and that I had none of these allergies."

She certainly has me as a witness, plus all who attended Mass here at St. Augustine until her allergies stopped her. All of us can attest to her vibrancy and driving energy in all the activities in which she was involved.

In fact, the Best Women's Day we have ever had here at St. Augustine Church occurred under her direction as chairperson in 1992, just before she became ill. There were no allergies then, nor were there any signs of any illness whatever.

Very mysteriously, after working 20 years at the USDA National Finance Center, Yvonne began getting sick in January 1993. She reported to management that odors coming out of the vents were giving her headaches and nausea.

Until she had her first fainting spell on July 14, the company refused to recognize that she and other employees who complained had a problem with the work environment. All day, a nurse monitored her blood pressure which had shot sky high.

The following day, with a splitting headache, nausea and elevated blood pressure, Yvonne went on her own to the emergency room of a hospital where she underwent a series of tests and received procadina to lower her blood pressure.

Returning to the same hospital on July 17, she was given a vistaril shot for nausea and a steroid shot to counter the chemicals she had inhaled on the job. Blood tests showed she had recently been exposed to some kind of chemicals.

Before the headaches, nausea and fainting spell, Yvonne had never had hypertension, had never had any other diseases, and took no pills. On the heels of the fainting spell came the allergies which soon converted her into a hermit.

"I told my doctor that I could no longer go to church, to get my groceries or to visit anyone. In fact, the only place I go is to see the doctor."

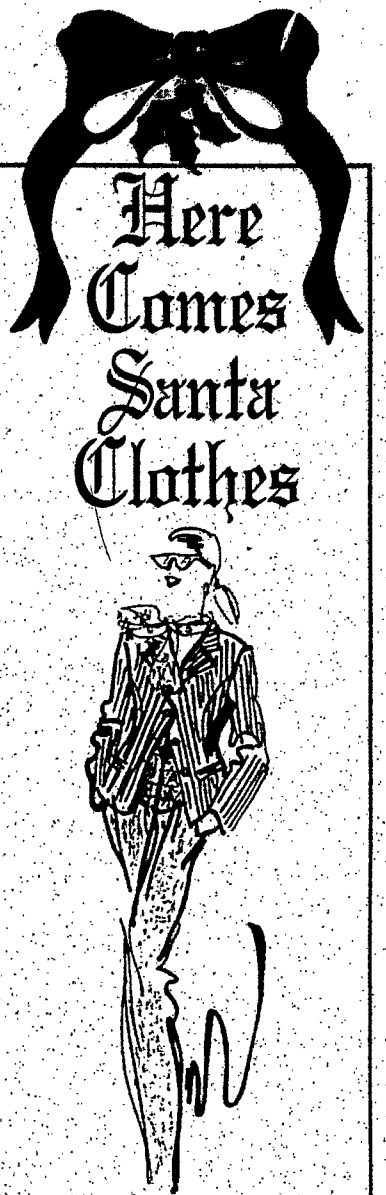

"Now the Department of Labor claims my sickness was there before I went to work, that it is not work-related, and, therefore, does not qualify me for medical compensation."

"In the midst of all this, they are having me evaluated by a psychiatrist, with the obvious implication that I am only imagining all these allergies because I'm not all there."

Needless to say, callous, bloodsucking greed drives companies, contradicted by numerous medical reports, to whip their minion lawyers to break the backs of employees who have done no more than suffer misfortune through no fault of their own.

Some employees do cheat. Yvonne has never cheated anyone.

Greed ruins our life

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

With that first tang of fall in the air, even though the temperature still rises as the day goes on, thoughts turn to fall menus after many an abbreviated summer lunch or supper. I've been besieged with requests for recipes for roasted dishes, as well as for soups and heartier dishes, than were asked for in the oft-streamlined menus of hot summer days.

There's great interest in hearty pork dishes. These days of course, with today's pork on hand, leaner and less fatty and tastier than in other years, many cooks still seem to abide by the old dictus of striking pork from the dinner table in summer.

In earlier days, fall was the signal of pork's return to the menu, along with "something sweet" such as baked apples or applesauce, to counteract the richness and heaviness of the pork. Nowadays, we enjoy pork year round.

One of the best pork buys, in my opinion, is the whole pork butt (or Boston Butt or pork shoulder roast, or by whatever name your market chooses to identify it. I usually cook this whole, after slicing some into pork steaks (quite as tasty as more expensive pork chops). Or, cut some into cubes for kebabs or strips for stir fry dishes or whatever.

Here's a basic way to cook:

ROAST PORK SHOULDER
6 lb. (approximately) pork shoulder roast.
Pepper, salt
1 clove garlic, coarsely chopped.
Sage, optional but good

Place the roast, fat side up, on a rack, in a shallow roasting pan, and season as you like with pepper and salt. Rub with the garlic and a bit of sage if you wish. I always use the sage, as I like it, and I also like the way it makes the whole house smell!

Roast uncovered in a 325 degree oven for, say 2½ to 3 hours or until one. Let stand for 15 minutes, then transfer to a warmed platter while you make sauce or gravy from the dripping. (4 servings)

You might want to serve leftovers as pork sandwiches, or an "ersatz-barbecued" pork by drenching slices or chunks with bottled sauce and simmering awhile atop the stove. Or, you might do as I often do and serve:

QUICK SWEET AND SOUR PORK

Two cups chunks of leftover pork

1 medium onion, sliced lengthwise
1 cup thinly-sliced carrots
1 large bell (green) pepper, cut into strips
1 Tbsp. oil
¼ Tbsp. cornstarch
1 cup chicken broth
¼ cup cider vinegar
¼ cup brown sugar
1 can (13½ oz., approximate), pineapple tidbits, drained

Saute the onion, carrot and bell pepper in the oil, stirring for 3 minutes or until crisp-tender, then remove from pan. Brown the pork pieces, pouring off any fat which accumulates. Combine the cornstarch, broth, vinegar and brown sugar, and bring to a boil, stirring the while. Simmer for a few minutes, then combine with the vegetables, pork and pineapple, and heat. Serve with fried rice. (4 to 6 servings)

Cranberries popular for winter holidays

By Dr. Milo Burnham
Horticulturist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Fresh cranberries are available in the market for a brief three-month period of October, November and December — just in time for the holidays.

The bulk of the nation's cranberry crop is processed, but about half of the cranberries sold fresh are marketed in November—the big attractions being cranberry relish and apple-cranberry pie to go along with the Thanksgiving turkey.

Fresh cranberries require refrigeration at 36 to 40 degrees and a relative humidity of 85 to 90 percent. Because they are available fresh for such a short period of time, cranberry lovers may want to purchase some extra packages not and freeze them for future use.

Processed cranberry products available year round include juice, jellied and whole berry sauce.

The botanical name for the cranberry is Vaccinium macrocarpon, which tells us the cranberry is in the same plant genus as the blueberry.

Tracing the plant back even further reveals that it is in the Heath family and related to several popular ornamental shrubs such as mountain laurel and rhododendrons, including all our azaleas, andromeda and enkianthus.

Cranberries are native to the northeastern United States and southern Canada.

Cranberries of one species or another are found from Newfoundland west to Minnesota, south to North Carolina, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. In the wild, the plants grow in locations often too wet for most other plants.

Cultivation has moved the commercial cranberry to the Pacific northwest where it is now produced in Oregon and Washington.

The cranberry industry in the United States started in Massachusetts between 1810 and 1820 and soon cranberries were cultivated in New Jersey, spreading west to Wisconsin and north to Nova Scotia. Production in Oregon was started in the 1880s.

Most cranberries are grown on floodable, organic or peat soils called bogs. Production is highly specialized requiring special land preparation, bog management and harvest equipment.

Sand is very important in bog preparation — as many as 400 cubic yards of sand per acre may be needed initially, with additional applications every few years.

The plant is a woody, perennial vine propagated by cuttings taken in spring before growth begins. The vines grow on the ground and have upright branches to bear flowers and fruit.

The flowers are largely self-pollinating, but some insects help aid the process. Since the vines do not grow rapidly, it may take three to four years after the cuttings are planted to bring a bog into production.

The common name of the plant was derived from the older name "craneberry" given because the flower bud and its stem resembled the neck, head and beak of a crane.

Cranberry production requires cool summer temperatures and long cold winters, so put any ideas of growing them in Mississippi out of your head.

Harvest begins in late summer when the small berries mature and turn red. Years ago, all cranberries were hand harvested with each harvester averaging only 3 to 4 bushels a day.

Today the bulk of the berries are mechanically harvested by large combing-type machines with floatation tires.

Evening at the Aquarium

"The Latest in Science Fairs — From Idea to Exhibit" will be the next Evening at the Aquarium program at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 5 at the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory's J. L. Scott Marine Education Center and Aquarium in Biloxi.

The presentation will offer specific information about upcoming science fairs for students, teachers and parents. The program will feature Dr. Sharon H. Walker, MEC&A administrator, and Dr. Shelia A. Student loan info accessible on-line

For students and parents surfing the Internet for information on financing and attending college, a tidal wave of helpful facts and tips has just splashed down at Sallie Mae's new home page on the World Wide Web.

The nation's largest source of funds for student loans, Sallie Mae has launched perhaps the most comprehensive site on the Internet for planning and paying for college. The 250-page site includes a calendar of steps for students getting ready to attend college and advice on finding the resources to pay for it.

"Financing a college education is no longer a simple matter of writing a tuition check or applying for a scholarship," says Lydia M. Marshall, executive vice president at Sallie Mae.

"There are a complex array of potential funding sources — grants, work-study, loans — to explore. Students and their families will find Sallie Mae's Internet address a great place to start.

In building this site, our goal was to make it the most complete source of user-friendly information on planning and paying for college."

Located at www.salliemae.com, Sallie Mae's web site features interactive calculators to help families estimate the cost of college and monthly loan payments as well as helpful samples of applications, such as the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) and the Stafford loan application.

There are tips on applying for financial aid, guidance on choosing a lender, and advice on managing student loan repayment.

With a mouse, modem and subscription to any one of the Internet gateways such as America OnLine, Prodigy or CompuServe, Internet surfers need only point their mouse arrows and "click" to access any number of helpful fields.

Want to find ways to reduce the cost of borrowing? Point, click and learn about Sallie Mae's borrower benefits that can reduce a borrower's interest rate by as much as 2.25 percent.

Need help in finding a lender? Point, click and a list of education loan lenders in the selected state appears. Having trouble with the sometimes-daunting alphabet soup of federal student loan programs? Just point and click for a glossary of terms that help make sense of it all.

A particularly useful feature of the Sallie Mae site is its interactive capabilities, notes Marshall. These interactive modules can help families determine the cost of college this year or for a particular year in the future, estimate how much of that total cost a family could be expected to contribute (based on federal methodology), provide monthly savings goals to meet that cost, calculate the cost of deferments, and tabulate the size of monthly loan payments. More interactive components are planned for the future.

For novice Internet users, Sallie Mae's web site has a variety of navigational tools that will help them find the information they need.

efforts to meet most of the voters in his vast district. The district's boundaries run from the Courthouse precinct to North Central, Kih East, the Fenton Community, Diamondhead West, Edwardsville, North Bay East and Central.

In the August 8 Democratic primary, Moran surprised even himself. He garnered 739 votes, a 50% majority, defeating Laddner and a third candidate Dwight F. Strahan.

He earned the right to face Republican David W. Depreo of Diamondhead in the Nov. 7 general election.

"I was fortunate in that I could take some time off at work to stay in there and campaign," said Moran. "But, the long haul between the Democratic runoff and the general election tried the patience of the voters and my supporters, as well."

Moran won by a 164-vote margin over Depreo, and now looks forward to putting partisan politics aside, and work for the overall good of the county.

"I'm excited about the opportunity we will have over the next four years," said Moran. "I don't think at any one time in the history of this county has there ever been five young supervisors and a chancery clerk. We come from very diverse backgrounds. We're all professionals, coming from five different directions."

"There will be a lot of eyes looking at us as we hope to operate the county in a business-like manner."

Moran's not unfamiliar with the county or its workforce. He worked on county road crews during two summers in high school.

One of his priorities, Moran said, will be to write up job descriptions, and properly evaluate the county's approximately 250 employees.

"I think it would build up morale and pride. This would not be a tool to chastise. From a business standpoint, it makes sense to look at your employees and see how they're performing," said Moran.

Moran's also concerned about the county's roads, particularly the roads that school buses travel. His wife, Shiela, teaches at Hancock North Central Elementary. His daughter, Lori, 9, and Allen, 8, also attend.

Near the end of the month, Moran will go on a road inspection tour of the county with the current supervisors, and the supervisors-elect. He plans to take a second look himself early next year.

"There are some really bad roads that our school buses travel on regularly," said Moran. "As soon as possible, I hope we can set in motion some kind of workplan and schedule for road maintenance, paving and drainage."

Moran admits the new board of supervisors will soon face "some tough decisions—some real hot potatoes."

"But, the people who elected us have spoken up. The people wanted us to make changes in order to bring Hancock County into the 21st century, and I think we'll do that."

He mentions the county is on the threshold of landing a $10 million grant to link up every residence south of I-10 to a sewer system.

Moran is also convinced there needs to be countywide building codes and zoning.

"The word coming down from Jackson is that if we don't do it in the next five years, the state will do it. I hope we will have enough foresight to do it," he said.

He said he hoped the Hancock County School Board and the Solid Waste District will make a decision on the future of a landfill in the Standard Community before new supervisors take office Jan. 2.

"That's a tough thing. Nobody seems to want a landfill in their back yard," said Moran. "Nobody seemed to know anything about it until it was a done deal. But, the county has already spent a lot of money getting this far."

On a juvenile detention center for Hancock County:

"That's a tough issue too. We have the money for it, but nobody seems to agree on where to put it or how to pay for a 24-hour staff that would be required."

Moran gets especially excited over visions he has for the county's economic growth.

"We're in a very unique situation," said Moran. "We're basically all young business people on this board, and I think that's good."

"We have some big corporations and industrial companies taking a very serious look at our Industrial Park (Port Bienville)."

He said District 1 Supervisor-elect Jeep Laddner, who has served on the Port and Harbor Commission, will be a valuable coworker, and consulted a lot on business decisions.

"We were all excited about casinos, but we've since learned they can pull out overnight," said Moran. "A company who spends big money to locate here is not going to leave tomorrow."

Asked about the role of the all new five-member board, Moran said, "We (the new board) have to make the most of it. The people, I think, are looking forward to it. We have to be smart enough not to make mistakes."

BellSouth grant

Rick Stewart, regional director for BellSouth, presents Hancock High School principal David Kopf an Adopt-A-School grant on behalf of BellSouth.

BellSouth awards Adopt-A-School grant

Hancock High School has received a $2,500 grant from BellSouth, the school's corporate partner in the Adopt-A-School program in Hancock County. The grant was presented to the school recently by Rick Stewart, regional director, on behalf of BellSouth.

The title of the project funded through this grant is "Getting Our Feet Wet: Surfing the Net." The project will establish a teacher mentor program to train teachers on the use of computers in the classroom.

In monthly training sessions that will take place on Saturdays, teachers will learn about such things as laser discs, multi-media presentations, electronic equipment and Internet skills.

BellSouth and Hancock High School have been partners for six years. The company's employees are involved with many projects to promote academic excellence, attendance and other activities to help the school.

"We are pleased this grant will be used to enhance academics at Hancock High School," said Stewart of BellSouth. "The business community realizes that we all can be partners to help prepare today's students for tomorrow's work force, and we hope that this project will benefit many students."

The Hancock High School-BellSouth relationship is one of 17 partnerships sponsored by BellSouth in Mississippi.

THE SEA COAST ECHO—SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 26, 1995-7A

The Station

Mississippi's labor force conditions took a healthy turn for the better in October, shaking off a sluggish third quarter showing. Total employment grew by about 21,000 from September, while the jobless count declined by nearly 17,000 people.

The end result was a sharply lower unemployment rate of 5.4 percent. This compared favorably to the 6.8 percent rating in September and to the 6.1 percent figure tallied in the corresponding month of 1994.

Seasonal trends contributed to the improvement as employment gains in agriculture and education helped offset some minimal losses in manufacturing and retail trade categories.

The decline in total unemployed could be attributed to fewer layoffs and to seasonal workers exiting the labor force temporarily. When adjusted for seasonality, the October rate declined nearly a full point from September, indicating real economic improvement.

Local conditions varied widely, with farming areas generally faring a bit better than other locales. Layoffs and recalls in certain areas also caused deviations from the norm. Most counties experienced substantial declines in the percentage of unemployment. Some 20 counties reported rates of less than five percent, but only five recorded rates of 10 percent or higher.

It is likely that most counties will show a slight rise in joblessness as such seasonal factors begin to impact the economy.

McMillan: Banks remain viable

The head of Mississippi's largest commercial financial institution believes the banking industry can survive and grow if all the proper pieces are put into place.

Howard L. McMillan Jr., president and chief operating officer of Deposit Guaranty Corp. and Deposit Guaranty National Bank, told University of Southern Mississippi students recently the future of banking depends on what happens with banking regulation, what financial services banks are allowed to handle in the future and whether the public responds to bank positioning.

"The banking industry enjoyed record level of profits in 1994 at $44.7 billion," McMillan told senior-level and graduate students in USM's College of Business Administration. "Banking is now one of the best capitalized industries in the country."

McMillan, who recently finished a year as president of the American Banking Association, said the association is working to affect change in the industry nationwide. He said repeal or changes in the Glass-Steagall Act, which prevents banks from getting involved in the securities market, and an agreement among the ABA and eight other trade associations known as the Alliance for Financial Modernization could go a long way toward insuring the banking industry's future. However, he said, the real key is customer service.

"Service has always been a benchmark of the banking industry," McMillan said. "We have to find ways to provide services to the customer when, how and where they want those services."

Online banking — introduced recently by Deposit Guaranty — is just one of the ways banks can offer that service, McMillan said.

"Banks must be on the leading edge of delivering services electronically," he said. "Banks also must be proactive when it comes to new services."

served on the Hancock County Board of Supervisors. So, when his wife retired in 1982, Lott decided to move his brood back home to Kiln. By now, the Lotts had two children, Daphne, 12, and Drew, 19.

In July of 1982, the Lotts started a new venture, not knowing how things would evolve.

They bought a small 12-seat cafe and a service station in Kiln near the intersection of Hwy 603 and the Kiln-Delisle Road. Outside were two antique gas pumps, a grease rack, a large room for storage and auto repairs and two outside restrooms.

Lee christened the new business, "The Olde Rooster Delicatessen." She got the mascot from experience teaching her third graders to draw.

"To me, the Rooster symbolized staying power," said Lee. "The rooster is spunky, and I wanted something to say this was going to be a spunky, little place." The deli restaurant soon became popular with the locals and work crews in the area, and the Lotts closed in the front porch and put in a grocery store the next year.

On weekends, they would hire a band, and stage a Fais-Do-Do. They would serve boiled crabs and crawfish.

"We didn't have a liquor license at that time, but we could sell beer," Lee said. "It was all good fun. People used to dance outside around the gas pumps."

Around 1990, Rooster's had earned a reputation for good food and good times, and the Lotts decided to take another chance. They expanded the restaurant, and applied and got permission for a state liquor license.

The first-time visitor is appalled by the ambience of the place. The small cafe has become the front dining room, and is used today mostly for the daily luncheon crowd. The grocery store and service station area and grease rack were turned into a relaxing lounge.

A large room for storage and repairs has now become the Acadian dining room, and the front porch has been enclosed for additional seating. The restaurant's three dining rooms can now seat 130 guests.

"We have long since enclosed our outdoor restrooms," Lee jokes.

Today, Rooster's is a major contributor to the local economy. It employs about 25 people, some of whom are sons and daughters of people who once worked there.

Rooster's is also a refuge for the locals who want a nice evening out without all the hassle of driving very far.

"It's a place where they can come to celebrate special events, such as birthdays and anniversaries or the young couples can come on prom night," said Lee. "A lot of people have gotten engaged here too," she said.

And, roosters are everywhere. Lee has pictures of them on the walls. Customers bring her ceramic roosters and stuffed roosters, and she finds a place to display them all.

The Lott's children are very much involved in the restaurant too.

Son Drew took over the chef's duties in 1991. He also apprenticed at Chez Oca and has held top cooking positions at several famous New Orleans restaurants, including Commander's Palace, Arnauds, Restaurant de la Tour Eiffel, and Mrs. B's Bistro. He came back home after two years cooking at Mahattan's famous LeCrique restaurant, ranked first in the United States and fifth best in the world. He is consulted as Executive chef for restaurants openings throughout the country.

"Like his Dad, Drew thought he would go into advertising," Mom says. "But when he started cooking at Chez Oca, he loved it."

"And, he is such a perfectionist. All the ingredients have got to be the freshest or he won't attempt it, said Lee." Some of the dishes that have become favorites of Rooster's loyal customers include an appetizer called, "Angels on Hoesback."

"These are fresh oysters, wrapped in bacon, fried in a deep batter and served with a butter and caper sauce," Lee explains.

Other specialties include stuffed flounder with crabmeat dressing, fried softshell crabs, served in a cream sauce, and broiled catfish, with a butter and lemon sauce.

The restaurant is closed on Sunday and Monday, and is open for lunch from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. Tuesday through Friday. Dinner is served from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday, and from 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Friday and Saturday.

On weekends, diners are entertained at the piano by Bill Kelly of Gulfport, who's been playing there for six years. And,

Pass Christian's Gigi Hines sings and plays guitar.

Daughter Daphne works at the restaurant too. She helps coordinate the evening dining room staff.

Lee has high praise for the cooking and waiting staff.

"We're family, and we treat everybody as family," said Lee. "We have people working with us bussing tables and in the kitchen. Their moms or dads have worked for us, or their aunts or uncles might have worked here."

Andy is very much involved in the business too.

"He does the ordering and the bookkeeping, and provides the organization we need to work and prosper. He's the first one here and the last one to leave," said Lee.

Today, Rooster's continues to be the bright spot between Picayune and Bay St. Louis, and after 14 years that's something to crow about.

Accident

Varnell said the children and neighborhood witnesses told police the automobile involved in the incident was a white mazda and a white female was behind the wheel.

Police put out a bulletin, and Varnell said between 7:30 and 7:45 p.m. the Hancock County Sheriff's Department received a 911 call reporting a medical emergency at a residence on Lakeshore Road in Clermont Harbor.

Sheriff's Deputies and another mobile medic unit found a white female at the residence apparently suffering from a drug overdose, and transported her to Gulfport Memorial Hospital.

A white Mazda was in the driveway of the residence, Varnell said, and he requested help from the state highway patrol's crime scene unit, which established the vehicle was the one involved in the hit-and-run.

Varnell said Bay St. Louis police earlier had gotten a call reporting that a vehicle fitting the same description had struck another car backing out of the Tax Assessor's office on Main Street downtown.

Chief Varnell, accompanied by another officer, went to Gulfport Memorial Hospital where they arrested Keintz.

She was later transported to the Hancock County jail, and is being held under $100,000 bond, Varnell said.

Keintz will make an initial appearance before a Municipal Judge in Waveland on Dec. 7, Varnell said.

Meanwhile, funeral services are pending for the Thomas child. Her body was taken to Baylous Funeral Home in Picayune.

is running at least 30 days behind schedule, although design is not to blame.

"There's been a lot of problems with the weather," he said. "It's a real hogwaller over there. It's been hard to work that site because it has been so mucky."

Fitzpatrick said the Waveland addition should also be "substantially complete" by Monday. Plans are to move in over the Christmas holidays.

In an unrelated matter, Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Board President Linda Penrose is calling for board members to evaluate all of the district's teachers. Currently, superintendent Paul Tisdale meets with each principal and then reports to the board recommendations regarding raises for teachers.

Penrose said she wants the principals to explain their teacher evaluations to the board.

"I want to go over all of the teacher evaluations with each principal in January," Penrose said. "If we wait for several meetings (to go over the recommendations with Tisdale) it will be too late. With (the principals' recommendations), we will be able to keep up on who's doing a good job and who's having problems."

"The board should require an evaluation of everyone."

Assistant Superintendent Dr. Betty Jones strongly objected to Penrose's proposal, saying Tisdale should be allowed to make the recommendations to the board.

The board has also agreed to let Tisdale contract with Fitzpatrick for preliminary plans for a new middle school. According to the agreement, Fitzpatrick will also determine "the size of the building and the parking lot," according to board members.

Plans calls for the district to build a new school in the near future, but it has encountered difficulties in locating a suitable site.

Penrose made it clear she only wants Fitzpatrick, at this time, to develop a "concept" for the new school.

"How do we know we want Kevin as architect?" she said.

Bay-Waveland Headstart students learn to give

Echo staff photos by Ellis C. Cuevas

Students from four units of the Bay-Waveland Headstart each collected a Thanksgiving basket for a deserving area family.

The project of Pamela Hatfield, a Headstart teacher, was to teach the students the importance of giving as well as receiving.

The students from the four units of Headstart proudly display their respective Thanksgiving baskets along with their teachers and teacher aides.

The four families received numerous cans of food items, collected from the children, as well as a turkey and other items for their Thanksgiving dinner.

Kiln VFW Ladies Auxiliary 6285

The meeting of the Kiln Ladies Auxiliary Post 6285 was Nov. 21 and was called to order by president Vera Ramsey.

Acting chaplain Aloyse Shiyon read the prayer. Minutes were read by secretary Aline Hoda. The treasurer's report was given by Bessie Necaise.

There was a discussion on the new youth essay contest for the 7-9th grades. Theme is "My American Hero." Cash awards will be given to the first three winners. Deadline will be March 1.

Donations were made to: $50 to the Gulfport VA Hospital for a Christmas party for patients; $100 to the same hospital for personal hygiene needs; $25 to National Home; $25 to North Hancock Business Association for toys for children; $25 to buy cookies to send to Whitfield; $50 to the Burn Center; and $100 to Nellie Adams, cancer patient, who lost her tailer in an explosion.

The meeting was adjourned with the closing prayer.

Gather Ye Rosebuds

Thursday, Nov. 30 at 7:30 p.m. is the next meeting of "Gather Ye Rosebuds," a society dedicated to the love and better growing of roses. The meeting will be at the Bay St. Louis Public Library, Uman Street entrance.

Speaking to the group will be John Davis of the Coastal Research and Extension Center. Topic will be winterizing rosebushes.

Among other topics, Jim Bell will be updating the group on plans for the renovation of the gardens at the Kate Lobrano House. All are welcome to attend. Those wishing to join may do so at the meeting, or get more information by calling 467-3008.

Gulf Coast Stamp Club

The Gulf Coast Stamp Club will meet Saturday, Dec. 2 at 7:30 p.m. at the Knights of Columbus Hall on East Water Street in Biloxi (south of the main post office).

Also, there will be a club Christmas dinner on Dec. 8. Call 863-7770 for information.

Bay-Waveland Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 33

Flotilla 33 of the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary has re-elected Rob Tomson as flotilla commander for 1996. Tomson served as commander in 1995 in an exemplary manner and was re-elected unanimously. Also elected as vice-commander for 1996 was Billy Ray Hammon.

The flotilla will be offering a new and revised Basic Boating Course in the spring. The course is targeted toward new boaters and even veterans who wish to improve their skills.

For information, contact Tomson at 466-4380.

Diamondhead Garden Club

The Diamondhead Garden Club announces the winners of the Garden of the Month Award for November. Among the recipients were Don and Carrie Perkins, 79293 Diamondhead Drive East for the Garden of the Month, and Nancy Hunt, 7826 Maui Place, No. 3 Pine, for the Golf Course garden. The commercial award went to the Diamondhead Nursing Home.

The club thanks residents and all others who work so diligently to keep Diamondhead looking beautiful.

Dazzling holiday festival lights up historic Canton

Brilliant Christmas displays, unique arts and crafts and the magic of Hollywood all combine this year for an enchanting holiday season in the traditional Southern city of Canton.

With its picturesque courthouse square, historic turn-of-the-century storefronts and stately antebellum and Victorian homes, Canton has long delighted visitors in search of the holiday spirit. Few cities offer as much simple beauty, rich culture and true hospitality.

"Nearly everyone who visits us during the holidays — whether adults or children — finds themselves caught up in the enchantment of this city," said JoAnn Gordon, executive director of the Canton Convention & Visitors Bureau. "We provide Christmas memories that last a lifetime."

Adding to the excitement in Canton this year is the filming of Mississippi native John Grisham's best-selling novel, A Time to Kill. Hollywood movie makers are filming through December in and around historic Canton.

The festivities begin with the Merchants Open House Nov. 25-26. Shopkeepers and gallery owners offer unique gifts of arts and crafts.

On the city square, the animated Christmas Wonderland Museum — featuring 70 life-sized moving figures — commemorates bygone days with images of a Victorian family and an imaginary train trip with Santa's elves.

Canton dresses up in its holiday best during the annual Festival of Lights. At no other time is the city more dazzling than at Christmas, when more than 30,000 twinkling lights outline Canton's storefronts and streets in a magnificent display. The celebration continues with a festive holiday parade and the annual community Christmas tree celebration.

Throughout December, residents and visitors can tour the many unique shops that have helped make Canton a respected center for the arts and crafts. The Victorian Decoration Tour filled with bright lights and holiday sounds blend with the citywide Tour of Lights and strolling carolers to round out this festive season.

HOROSCOPES

November 26 - December 2

ARIES — March 21/April 20

An acquaintance or distant relative may seem unusually friendly all of a sudden. Be on your guard. There could be an ulterior motive — especially if you're financially well-off. If you're involved with a Scorpio or Leo, this could be an especially emotionally-charged week.

TAURUS — April 21/May 21

A health concern should be addressed before it becomes a real problem. Even if it seems minor, you're better off safe than sorry. Don't waste time on someone who is bound to let you down. Give more credit and attention to those on whom you can rely. Think positively in matters of love.

GEMINI — May 22/June 21

Having a hard time focusing on your day-to-day tasks? Has your enthusiasm towards work dwindled? Need some excitement in your life? A new adventure is the perfect way to put a little spark back in your life. Do something different. Try something new. What have you got to lose?

CANCER — June 22/July 22

Go the extra mile if you're working on an important project. It will most certainly pay off. Minor frustrations are better dealt with in a calm — rather than emotional — manner. Try not to take life so seriously. A new friend may not be all that (s)he seems to be. You may be in for a surprise.

LEO — July 23/August 23

What you think of as innocent teasing may be quite offensive to someone else. Think before you speak. A Libra friend will offer good advice to an ongoing problem. Family quarrels are likely to erupt at the drop of a hat this week. Keep a low profile on the home front.

VIRGO — Aug 24/Sept 22

Instead of trying to relieve the symptoms, you'd be better off looking for an immediate cure to an ongoing problem. Play it safe when it comes to finances. Gambling of any kind is out of the question. Try to be a better listener in a romantic relationship. Thursday will bring good news.

LIBRA — Sept 23/Oct 23

A crisis situation at work will give you the opportunity to show what you're capable of. Your impressive reaction is sure to get noticed. Try to better understand a loved one who may need some time alone. This is especially true if you're involved with Cancer the Crab. Let him/her crawl into the protective shell.

SCORPIO — Oct 24/Nov 22

You can learn something from a young family member this week. Open your eyes and your ears and you may be highly enlightened. Older is not always wiser. Look before you leap when it comes to shopping this week. Caution will save you from frivolous spending.

SAGITTARIUS — Nov 23/Dec 21

An associate you never thought of as a friend will show you a different side of his/her personality. You'll realize that this person is more complex than you thought. An unexpected delay on Friday may upset your entire weekend plans. You may take care of business before having fun.

CAPRICORN — Dec 22/Jan 20

Stand up for what you believe in and you'll be sure to get what you want. Give in, and frustration is certain. It's totally up to you. Set a good role for an impressionable youth. You can make a difference. Later in the week, you may find something that has been lost for a while.

AQUARIUS — Jan 21/Feb 18

The accomplishment of a family member will be of significance this week. There may even be some type of celebration. A second chance on something you thought was a done deal gives you the opportunity to shine. A Leo with bad intentions may try to get the better of you.

PISCES — Feb 19/March 20

Take the lead if planning a special event. Your creativity and imagination is sure to add the right touch. Keep a keen eye out for investment opportunities. There could be a diamond in the rough waiting for you. In matters of love, don't set yourself up for disappointment.

YOUR BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

The next 12 months:

Taking risks will lead you to greatness this year. Let your intuition be your guide when making risky decisions. Looking to make a change in career? Late winter is the best time to make a move. Focus and you will get far. Romance will have highs and lows throughout the year. If you are married or in a long-term relationship, you must remember not to take your partner for granted. Stable relationships need attention, too. Single? If so, new romance is likely in the spring. An attractive Leo is likely to steal your heart. There may also be a seductive Scorpio in the stars!

WEDDINGS

Keel-Chotto

Trina Louise Chotto of Diamondhead and Martin Thomas Keel of Pass Christian were united in marriage September 9, 1995, at the Markham Building in Gulfport. Judge Mary Foretich officiated. The reception followed in the Grand Ballroom.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cuccia of Diamondhead.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Keel of Pass Christian.

Given in marriage by her two sons, Ryan and Dustin Chotto, the bride was attended by her maid of honor, Glenda Gregory of Pass Christian, matron of honor, the groom's sister, Kay Hilburn of Pass Christian, the groom's sister, Kim Blakefield of Pass Christian, Shella McAdoo of Long Beach, the bride's daughter, Chantelle Chotto, and flower girl, Katie Hilburn, niece of the groom.

Best man was Grant Lacoste of Pass Christian.

Groomsmen were his brother-in-law Bennie Hilburn, groom's brother, Matthew Keel, and Jerry Forte, all of Pass Christian.

Bennie Hilburn and Matthew Keel also served as ushers.

Nuptial selections were provided by Mike and Cathy Keel, and vocalist was Ryan Chotto.

After a wedding trip to Gatlinburg, Tenn., the couple and children will reside in Diamondhead.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Thomas Keel

Lee-Necaise

The marriage of Cindy Lou Necaise and Zachary Paul Lee was solemnized September 16 at 5 p.m. at the Hancock County Civic Center in Bay St. Louis.

Judge Joe Dobson officiated at the candlelight ceremony. Music was presented by Joelle Bivens and Keith Hoda.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Necaise Jr. of Bay St. Louis.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Lee of Picayune.

The bride wore a gown of candlelight satin and illusion lace accented with seed pearls and sequins. The fitted bodice featured a moderate Victorian neckline with long lace and pearl sleeves. The full-flowing skirt was bordered with appliques, heavily accented by hand-set pearls, seed pearls and iridescent sequins, which swept to a long chapel-length train, topped with a large bustle bow, accented with pearls and sequins. Her veil was a wreath of pearls and sequins with silk illusion edged with beads. The bride's flowers were a cascade of bride's roses, pearls, lace ribbon, baby's breath and greenery.

Glenda Necaise of Bay St. Louis attended as maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Jessica Bivens and Melissa Bivens.

Hailey Walley of Hattiesburg was flower girl.

Wyatt Mitchell of Picayune was ring bearer.

Best man was Jason Lee of Picayune.

Groomsmen were David Necaise and Douglas Necaise of Bay St. Louis, brothers of the bride.

Ushers were Clyde Bivens of Bay St. Louis and Anthony Lee of Picayune, brother of the groom.

After a trip to the Smoky Mountains, the couple will make their home in Bay St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Zachary Paul Lee

Growers rejoice over Christmas

Mississippi Christmas tree growers welcome this year's crop with anticipation for a happy holiday season.

"Overall the crop looks great in spite of the drought," said Dr. Steve Dicke, extension forestry specialist in Raymond. "A few growers experienced some disease problems, but the outcome of the crop in general is outstanding."

Last year 220,000 Mississippi-grown trees were sold for about $2 million.

"Growers expect sales to be as good or better than last year," Dicke said.

The main species sold this state include Virginia pine, Leyland cypress and eastern redcedar.

Although the late summer drought affected most other crops in the state, Christmas tree growers had little problem with the drought.

Wallace Swendenburg, a Columbus grower, said the crop is in excellent condition and looks fantastic.

"It was very hot in late July and early August which slowed down the growth a bit, but this really had no effect on the crop," said Swendenburg.

"The Virginia pines are still growing, so they have literally absorbed the 5 to 6 inches of rain we've received lately."

Florence grower Ben Moseley said despite a few losses, it has been a good year with some trees showing growth late in the season.

"We lost some Leyland cypress seedlings to drought because we did not have irrigation," said Moseley. "The Virginia pines have responded well to the late season rain which will aid harvest and help the trees stay greener in homes."

Dicke said the Leyland cypress trees usually are harvested at three years of age, so the loss of Leyland cypress seedlings this year will influence sales during 1997.

State Christmas tree grower numbers have declined sharply in the past 10 years. Mississippi had 450 Christmas tree growers in 1985, and currently there are only 150 growers scattered in about 50 counties throughout Mississippi.

Dicke said the trees are hard to grow and difficult to market well. Mississippi growers primarily operate choose-and-cut operations.

Growers harvest most Christmas trees at three to five years of age. The trees are sheared and pruned twice a year to keep them in shape.

Grower Michael May of Chunky, said the trees look a little better this year.

"The trees are bushier and are filling out nicely. We feel very positive about this year's crop," said May. "I think the condition of this year's trees has more to do with shearing than anything else."

The average Christmas tree is 6 to 7 feet tall and will cost between $20 and $28. For taller trees and Leyland cypress trees, consumers can expect to pay at least $5 per foot.

Dicke said the eastern redcedar was the original Mississippi Christmas tree at one time. This is the tree families would go choose and cut from the pastureland.

"That's why the choose-and-cut operations are so popular," said Dicke. "Families are still able to hold on to tradition and enjoy all the things the holiday season brings."

The Christmas pet:

What to expect when the holiday is over

Thinking about buying/adopting a new furry friend for your children this Christmas? You might want to do some research to avoid making a rash decision.

"Many parents, caught up in the holiday spirit, buy a pet without considering whether or not their family is ready for one," says Dr. Dan Carey, a veterinarian with The Iams Company.

"Truth is, a new puppy or kitten is like a baby; they require a tremendous amount of attention, time and money, but the rewards of having one are immeasurable."

Is your family ready for a pet? Here are some things worth considering.

• Do you have time, time and more time?

All new pets command a lot of attention, but this is especially true of puppies. Until a puppy is housebroken and comfortable with his surroundings, he will need constant supervision.

A comfortable crate is effective while everyone is at work or school (providing that someone is on hand to walk and feed the dog at certain times during the day).

Remember, puppies thrive on human companionship and will not hesitate to let you know this, at any time of the day or night.

It will be your job, not your children's, to properly house-break your pet. This takes time and an abundance of patience. Good training from the start means less headaches for you, fewer messes on your carpet and a happier Fido or Fluffy.

• Veterinarian visits are vital to your pet's good health.

It is important to remember that pets need yearly veterinary check-ups, even if nothing is wrong. Preventative medicine is easier—and often less expensive—than curing an illness or correcting a problem. At the yearly check-up, make sure your pet receives its proper vaccinations.

Also, unless you plan to breed your dog or cat professionally, spaying/neutering is essential. Along with helping to alleviate the growing number of unwanted pets in this country, spaying can prevent some forms of cancer in pets. The operation is safe; your veterinarian can advise you of the proper age for your pet to be spayed/neutered.

• The right match.

Here's the situation... you live in an apartment in the city. Your kids have been begging Santa to stuff their stockings with a Siberian Husky this Christmas. Against your better judgment you get them the Husky pup. Really, a puppy so little and cute can't get that big.

Right?

Many people purchase puppies based on pressure from their kids or on the puppy's appearance. They do not take into account how big that puppy will get, that the breed may not adapt to young children, or is high-spirited and needs room to run.

It is best to research the breed before you purchase the puppy to save yourself the heartache of owning an animal that's not a good match for your family's lifestyle.

• Some (pet) food for thought.

You spend plenty of time picking out the best foods for your family, and chances are you'll do the same for your pet.

Here are some tips: Growing and active pets need a high-protein, high-fat diet; what's good for you is not necessarily good for your pet.

Read pet food labels carefully to be sure your dog or cat food is high in animal-based protein (chicken by-products, lamb, egg)—it should appear at the top of the list.

Owning a pet can be a wonderful, rewarding experience—if you do your homework.

BACKACHE.

The little pain that lasts and lasts.

Back pain often starts small. Sometimes it disappears; usually it returns; often it gets worse. If left untreated, back pain can linger for years as a nagging reminder that all is not well.

Your job may be the culprit; you may sit all day hunched over a desk; you may lift heavy objects; you may be constantly bending over, caring for children. These are common causes of misaligned vertebrae of the spine and may be good reasons why you have back pain.

And because the spine is a complex system which is connected to other areas of the body, misaligned vertebrae in the spine can also be the reason for tension, stiffness, fatigue and more specifically back pain and headaches.

Our doctors at HODA CHIROPRACTIC CLINICS are specialists in back care. They can restore spinal vertebrae to their proper position, relieving pain and avoiding further complications.

Make this the last morning your back is left untreated. See Dr. Desmond W. Hoda.

PUBLIC HEARING
The Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission will hold a public hearing Wednesday, December 13, 1995, at 7:30 p.m. in the City Hall Annex, 111 Court Street, to consider the following applications:
Mr. & Mrs. Charles R. Ramsey, application for special subdivision. The property in question is located on Balentine Street and is described as Part of Lot 48, Lots 49 and 50 and Part of Lot 51, Balentine Subdivision, and Part of Lot 38 and Lot 39, Fourth Ward, Bay St. Louis, Hancock County, Mississippi. It is zoned R-2.
Dan & Nancy Henderson, application for special exception to the zoning ordinance to operate a bed and breakfast in an area zoned for residential use. The property in question is located at 207 Union Street and is described as S 1/2 of Lot 221, Second Ward, Bay St. Louis, Hancock County, Mississippi. It is zoned R-3.
M.E. Gibbons for Mr. & Mrs. Chris Oliver, application for a variance to the density requirement. Proposed construction on the property will result in a density of 29% rather than the allowed density in a single-family residential zone of 25%. The property in question is located at 102 Beverly Drive and is described as Lot 3, Hancock County, Mississippi. It is zoned R-1.
Gerald Lee Howard, Sr., application for a variance to the allowed setback in order to construct a carport. The property in question is located at 310 DeMottuzin Avenue and is described as the South 90 feet of Lot 14, Block 2, Park Subdivision, First Ward, Bay St. Louis, Hancock County, MS. It is zoned R-2.
Additional information for the above mentioned is available for review during the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday in the office of the Clerk of Council, City Hall Annex, 111 Court Street. All interested parties are invited to attend.
